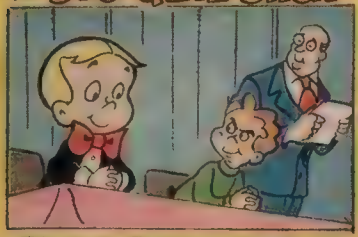
RICHIE RICH in THE BIG QUIZ SHOW



This was it. The finals of the big quiz show were finally being held for the $500,000 in prizes donated by the Rich family. The winner could do whatever he chose to with the money—keep it for himself or donate it to whatever charities were his favorites.

If you hadn't heard, the topic of the quiz was money. And the two finalists, the two who knew most about money, were Richie Rich and his cousin Reggie Van Dough.

Richie had already announced he was giving his money to the Combined Charities Fund. Reggie had also announced his intentions—and as everyone had expected, he was keeping his money, adding to the millions he already owned.

"And now, ladies and gentlemen," said Mayor North, who was acting as quizmaster, "we're ready to start the finals."

The huge Civic Auditorium was filled to capacity, and a suspenseful hush hung over one and all. One wrong answer would give the other party the title—and the money.

"The first question," said the mayor, "is for Reggie Van Dough. Can you tell us, Reggie, another name for the hobby of coin collecting?"

Reggie paused for a few seconds, as if to think, and then said with a smile, "Numismatics."

"Correct," said the mayor to a mild applause, primarily from some of Reggie's relatives.

"And now, Richie Rich," continued the mayor, "can you tell us who were the first coin collectors?"

Richie answered almost immediately. "The ancient Romans," he said.

Mayor North announced, "Correct" to thunderous applause. It was easy to see who was the crowd's favorite.

"The next question," said the mayor, "for Reggie is—what famous American hero was also famous as a designer of money?"

Reggie seemed to be struggling with that one. It looked almost as if he were trying to hear something from inside his head. Finally his face lit up. "I hear you—I mean I've got it," he said. "It's Paul Revere."

"Correct again," said Mayor North. "And now, Richie, can you tell us what was the world's largest coin?"

"I believe," answered Richie, "It was a copper coin minted in Sweden in 1644. It was fourteen by twenty-four inches in size, a half inch thick and weighed forty-four pounds."

"Wow," smiled the mayor, who was rather impressed. "Absolutely correct." The audience was wild with applause at that one, and even Reggie looked startled that Richie knew the answer.

"And now, Reggie," asked Mayor North "Can you tell us what the famous 'bread money' of Alaska was REALLY made of?"

"Uhmmm . . . uhm . . ." muttered Reggie, once again seeming to listen to something inside his head. "G-ol—no, sil—uhmmm. Oh, yes, it was made of bread."

"Absolutely correct again," said the mayor. "That certainly was a tricky one, but it's perfectly true. And now, Richie. What coin has been circulated and accepted in more parts of the world than any other coin?"

"I would say, your honor, it was the Dos Mundos—also known as the Pillar Dollar—which was minted from 1732-1772 in Spain and in the Spanish Colonies."

The mayor nodded that it was correct, and the crowd once more cheered their favorite.

"I am mighty proud of you two boys," smiled the mayor. "You are intelligent, you know your subject, and you have been so fair about this contest."

Reggie blushed when the mayor used the word "fair," and Richie noticed it. He had also been noticing some of Reggie's strange behavior. To Richie it seemed that Reggie really was listening to something in his head—or better, in his ear.

As Reggie was asked the next question, Richie decided to look over the audience. "What was the smallest U.S. coin ever issued?" was the mayor's question. And there it was—Richie noticed a man talking into a little walkie-talkie at the very same time as Reggie seemed to be listening.

Cadbury, who had been standing at the side of the Auditorium, had noticed Richie's eyes and followed them to where the man with the walkie-talkie was sitting. In the middle of the man's talking, the Rich family's perfect butler, stood next to the man and poked him in the ribs. "Excuse me, sir," the butler roared.

"OUCH . . . OHH!" the man with the walkie-talkie shouted.

And immediately: "OWWWW!" shouted Reggie from onstage. He quickly pulled a little receiving plug from his ear—and everyone in the audience realized at once what had happened. The man had been feeding Reggie the answers.

"BOOOOOOOO!" the crowd roared. Even, yes, the relatives of Reggie Van Dough.

The shocked, shattered and embarrassed Reggie dashed from the stage and disappeared through one of the exits as the crowd started to applaud the winner.

"Thank you, thank you," Richie smiled. "And to those of you who wondered about that question, the smallest U.S. coin ever issued was a three-cent piece minted from 1851 to 1873. It was discontinued because it was so small that it could be lost."

Can you imagine the delight the crowd had in applauding its champion . . and the Combined Charities Fund had in receiving its prize!

with Fast Selling American Seeds

Take your choice of 100 wonderful prizes. You can earn as many as you want. Most prizes shown here and many more in our Big Prize Book are given WITHOUT COST for selling just one 45-pack order of American Vegetable and Flower Seeds at 40¢ a pack. Some of the larger prizes require more sales or extra money as explained in the Big Prize Book.

Send NO MONEY, We Trust You

Everybody wants American Seeds. They're fresh and ready to grow. You'll sell them quickly to family, friends and neighbors. Many boys and girls sell their packs in one day. You can, too—and get your prize at once. Or if you want money instead of a prize, keep $6.00 for every 45-pack order you sell.
